

During the course of the morning we will discover 6 Universal building blocks for teachers. These building BLOCKS will work irrespective of subject, speaker, student or society. Each session will be designed for maximum participation, be highly visual, tactile and interactive.

There's nothing more fulfilling for teachers, parents or other communicators than seeing their students blossom and flourish because of what and how they have taught them.

Would you like to experience that feeling when you teach? You can! We're about to discover 6 universal teaching blocks that will enable you to teach for life change. These proven principles will revolutionize the way your students respond to your teaching, no matter what your specific situation may be.

You see, I've been studying the process of education for years now, honing and refining my own approach, and trying to put into practice what I've discovered. You've worked hard to be a good teacher. Now you are about to take the next step towards becoming a master teacher. So prepare to be challenged, to laugh, to question, to ponder, to be stretched, to become even more enthusiastic about your role as a communicator as we look at the six building blocks for teachers.
